State Legislature previously rejected the five projects through the 2023-25 Capital Budget process.

“Investments through the Non-State Grant Program will help support local jobs and workers, bolster local tourism and economies, and improve the quality of life for folks in every corner of Wisconsin,” said Gov. Evers. “A critical part of our administration’s work has been ensuring our infrastructure, workforce, and economy are prepared to meet the needs of the 21st Century, and that includes investing in critical improvements and development at the local level that we know will have a long-term impact on our communities and our state.

“Along with the five new building projects we announced last week, this initiative marks a significant stride in our efforts to build strong, resilient communities here in Wisconsin. I encourage local partners to take advantage of this new opportunity,” Gov. Evers concluded.

The application period for the program is now open and will close on Jan. 31, 2024. During this window, non-state organizations are encouraged to submit proposals that not only align with the program’s mission but also demonstrate innovative solutions to pressing community challenges. To be eligible for a grant, non-state organizations must secure funding from non-state revenue sources covering at least half of the total project cost and be ready for construction. This period represents a unique opportunity for organizations to contribute to the state’s progress by proposing projects that stand to make a lasting impact on Wisconsin’s social and economic landscape.
