Voters experienced difficulty requesting and receiving absentee ballots, poll worker shortages resulted in long wait times, mixed messages left persons quarantining at home confused on how to vote, and many other discrepancies.

WISCONSIN - Following Tuesday's Spring election, in which hundreds of thousands of voters experienced ballot shortages, long lines, confusion, and the choice between their health and their constitutional right to vote, the League of Women Voters of Wisconsin Executive Director Debra Cronmiller issued the following statement:

"As we wait for ballots to be processed and tallied from yesterday's election, we take stock of this spring election season and all that Wisconsin voters have been through these past weeks. It's no secret that this election has been plagued with serious—and even dangerous—issues.
