Gallagher was one of three Republican members in the House who went against their party last week, voting against the impeachment of Homeland Security Secretary Alejandro Mayorkas.

WASHINGTON - Rep. Mike Gallagher (R-Wisc.) announced Saturday that he will not seek reelection this fall after four terms in office.

Gallagher, the chair of the Select Committee on the Chinese Communist Party, released a statement via social media where he said when he ran for office eight years ago, he “promised to treat my time in office as a high-intensity deployment.
