Minnesota Lowest. Walker's tax credit plan worse for states like Wisconsin with high health insurance costs. Regional health insurance price changes provided in analysis.

STATEWIDE - An analysis of Scott Walker's recent health repeal proposal by Citizen Action of Wisconsin reveals that his plan would expose many Wisconsin consumers who receive federal tax credits under the Affordable Care Act (ACA) to massive premium hikes.

Walker's proposal released on Tuesday would, if it were ever enacted, repeal the Affordable Care Act (ACA), replacing the law's current tax credits which are based on income and the actual cost of health insurance where consumers live with a new flat-rate scheme based solely on the age of the applicant. This change would be catastrophic for Wisconsin health consumers, exposing hundreds of thousands of Wisconsinites to the state's' higher than average health insurance rates. Wisconsin is the 4th most expensive state to purchase individual health insurance policies after Alaska, Vermont and Wyoming, based on current silver plans .

Over time this adverse impact will grow worse because Walker's tax credits do not adjust for the rising cost of health care, unlike the ACA tax credits. It will also get worse if Wisconsin does not take steps to reduce its higher than average health insurance premiums. It is uncertain whether Walker's tax credits would ever become law because he proposes to repeal all funding sources for health reform.

"As a high cost state, Wisconsin health consumers benefit more than other states from tax credits under the Affordable Care Act which provide more help for consumers who live in areas with more expensive health insurance," said Robert Kraig, Executive Director of Citizen Action of Wisconsin. "By trying to turn the clock back by repealing the health care law, Walker's scheme would dramatically increase the sticker price of health insurance for tens of thousands of Wisconsinites."
