GREEN BAY - Russ Feingold joined community leaders, elected officials, union leaders, and business owners in Green Bay on Tuesday to discuss Wisconsin's infrastructure concerns.

Participants included Brown County Supervisor and former Chair of the Brown County Republican Party Mark Becker, State Senator Dave Hansen, State Representative Eric Genrich, IUOE Treasurer Shane Griesbach, Relyco, Inc. President Bradley Ottam, Green Bay Chamber of Commerce Government Affairs Representative Jayme Sellen, and Live54218 Executive Director Jennifer Van Den Elzen.

"They discussed possible solutions to pressing problems like infrastructure and job creation."

Traveling around Wisconsin, Russ consistently hears from Wisconsinites who are fed up with the state's outdated infrastructure. Crumbling roads and bridges are literal obstacles to the success of Wisconsin's students and small businesses, making it too difficult -- and sometimes dangerous -- to transport products and people to their destinations, and standing in the way of billions of dollars in revenue.

That's why Russ introduced the Badger Innovation Plan , designed to jumpstart the state's transportation infrastructure through a combination of state and federal investments. Russ knows we need a 21st century infrastructure for Wisconsin businesses to be competitive and our students to succeed.
