Hey there, folks. Governor Tony Evers here.

As we celebrate Veterans Day, we're honoring all the brave individuals who've sacrificed and selflessly served our country.

Every day—but especially as we honor Veterans Day—we reflect on how we can give back to our veterans and how we can support them just as they've supported us.

There are more than 300,000 veterans who call our state home, and my administration and I have committed to making sure each of them has access to the resources and support they've earned through their service.
