MADISON - This week we revealed that there is one company behind the Republican bills to make it easier to sell off municipal water utilities. Find out who that company is, and how much it spent on lobbying last year, by reading this article:

And guess whose fingerprints are all over these bills? None other than ALEC, as we show here:

The NRA is also throwing its weight around in the legislature. It's behind two bills, including concealed carry for switchblades and other blades:

As you can see, there have been a lot of retrograde bills coming down the pike lately. I had fun testifying at the Capitol on Tuesday against a bill that would restrict local governments from issuing their own ID cards to residents. Here's my testimony:

And here's a bill we support, as it would safeguard public records in Wisconsin:

Democratic bill would create fine for destroying certain public records

As the legislature hurries to finish up its work in the next month or so, we'll keep an eye out on the bills – and the money behind the bills.
