

The MU Law poll, Erica Flynn discusses her trip to Texas to protest children are still incarcerated in detention centers, the Supreme Court gerrymandering decision, and a 20% rise in Wisconsin child poverty.

MILWAUKEE - Our panel analyzes in depth the latest MU Law poll that was released this week.

We welcome Citizen Action Organizing Cooperative member Erica Flynn, who is running for state assembly, to discuss her trip to Texas this weekend. Erica was part of Citizen Action of Wisconsin and People's Action delegation that attended a vigil at the Ursula Border Processing Center, where hundreds of children are still incarcerated in detention centers under Trump's brutal family separation policy.

We also review the Supreme Court gerrymandering decision and Robert talks about new disturbing UW research showing showing a 20% rise in Wisconsin child poverty last year, despite Walker's claim that the economy is doing great.
