Great wins occurred on pro-democracy referendums.

MADISON - Amidst all the coverage of Tony Evers's narrow victory over Scott Walker last week, one story got lost: the great wins that occurred on pro-democracy referendums.

By overwhelming margins, citizens in four counties voted against partisan gerrymandering, and citizens in nine communities said they were in favor of amending the U.S. Constitution to overturn Citizens United. Here are the details:

Another story that didn't get enough attention was the record amount of outside money that splattered our screens with mud in the lead-up to Election Day. Here's our list of express advocacy groups, and the Koch Brothers' Americans for Prosperity tops it:

And we continue to expose how big donors have gotten their way, time and time again, at the DNR under Scott Walker. Our most recent posting here was about the Kohlers and their golf course:

We'll be vigilant, over the next six weeks, to watch for any last minute giveaways to donors, and we'll press ahead with our pro-democracy agenda in the year ahead.

Thanks for all your support!

Best,
