National Education Association (NEA) Endorses President Biden as a Tireless Advocate for Teachers.

WASHINGTON, DC - Statement from Kevin Munoz, Spokesperson for Biden-Harris 2024 Campaign:

"For so many Americans, President Biden included, the people who've made the biggest difference in their lives are teachers. President Biden is honored to have earned the trust of the National Education Association's three million members. America's future and ability to win the economic competition of the 21st century starts at every desk, in every classroom, in every ZIP code in America. That is why the President likes to say that America's teachers are the single most important component of our future, and they deserve a raise, not just praise. The NEA stood with President Biden in 2020 and they're committed to finishing the job together because they have seen him deliver real results. From investing in teacher pay, to expanding Registered Apprenticeship Programs to address the educator shortage, to defending the rights of students to learn in environments free of gun violence, the President has proven that he stands with America's teachers and students."
