MILWAUKEE - We discuss the Guardian's sensational leaked court documents from the John Doe investigation that reveal the influence of corporate pay to play in Scott Walker's campaign.

We focus especially on the sleazy deal with paint manufactures where Walker sold out kids who have been poisoned by lead for $750,000 to political groups that helped Walker survive his recall election.

Documents also show Republican operatives discussed ginning up "voter fraud" reports in 2011 Supreme Court Election.

We also talk about Sen. Ron Johnson's Senate hearing Thursday to undermine access to affordable health care.
