

Madison to Get Air National Guard F-35 Mission

Written by Wisconsin Senate, Bridget Esser

Thursday, 21 December 2017 16:17 - Last Updated Thursday, 21 December 2017 16:36

Former fighter pilot Sen. Mark Miller comments on the F-35 landing in Madison.

MADISON - Senator Miller released the following statement on the U.S. Air Force choice to house F-35 fighter jets at Truax Field:

“Congratulations to my former colleagues at the 115th Fighter Wing on your selection to be a preferred location for the Air National Guard F-35 mission. As a former fighter pilot stationed at Truax and as the State Senator who represents the airport and the base, I know the value to the community of hosting the F-35 mission and also the value to the members of the 115th of the community support for that mission. The 115th Fighter Wing’s dedication to excellence and the support of our community, helped them rise above the other contenders for this mission.”